Daniel Glover is national co-lead of our Cyber/Data Group and a member of our Intellectual Property, Privacy, Technology, Consumer Products & Retail Group, Franchise & Distribution, and Appellate Groups.

Daniel has significant experience in all aspects of information law. His practice takes a 360-degree approach to data: he helps clients extract the tremendous value inherent in data, while at the same time managing the complex risks associated with data. He has worked on the highest-stakes files in the field, having advised clients in relation to the three largest data breaches in Canadian history and having argued landmark cases before the Supreme Court of Canada and other leading appellate courts.

The breadth and excellence of Daniel's practice are widely recognized. Chambers Canada ranks Daniel as a leading lawyer in three separate areas: Intellectual Property: Litigation, Media & Entertainment, and Privacy & Data Protection. Daniel also plays a key role in McCarthy Tétrault's Band One Information Technology practice.

Daniel's insights come from significant exposure to the many different areas of law touching on the exploitation and protection information, including privacy, cybersecurity, breach response, copyright and trademark infringement, privilege, anti-spam and marketing compliance, confidential information, competition law, constitutional law, and Internet law.

This exposure touches upon a broad diversity of industries. Daniel has advised numerous clients in the technology, social media, consumer products, retail, financial services, insurance, entertainment, gaming, automotive, industrial and health services fields, including in the class action setting and also before key privacy, health privacy, and marketing regulators across Canada.

In his litigation practice, Daniel delivered oral submissions on behalf of the International Federation of the Phonographic Industry (IFPI) and other creative industry stakeholders in the landmark decision of Equustek Solutions Inc. v. Google Inc., 2017 SCC 73, a case that has drawn global attention, as it created a new form of equitable relief allowing courts to order search engines to remove links to infringing content worldwide and across all of their platforms. This case has been reported in Fortune, Wired, The New York Times, and the Hollywood Reporter, among other publications.

Daniel has also represented clients in numerous other complex matters before the Supreme Court of Canada, the Federal Court of Appeal, the Federal Court, the British Columbia Court of Appeal, the Ontario Court of Appeal, the Ontario Superior Court of Justice, the Copyright Board of Canada, the Canadian Radio-television and Telecommunications Commission, and the Trademarks Opposition Board.

Beyond his successful representation in the Equustek case, Daniel was counsel in successful appeals at the Supreme Court of Canada in two leading copyright cases in 2012, appeared at the Supreme Court again in 2013 and 2015 in important appeals on the test for copyright infringement and the application of copyright law to new technologies. These cases were instrumental in McCarthy Tétrault LLP being named Managing IP's Canada Copyright Firm of the Year for 2018 and 2019. Lexpert has named five of his cases in its annual "Top 10 cases" rankings (for 2012, 2014, 2015 and 2017), and another was named a Managing IP Milestone Case of the Year for 2016. Daniel also led the drafting of an amicus brief on international copyright law standards at the Supreme Court of the United States in 2014.

A selection of cases in which Daniel was counsel includes:

- American Broadcasting Companies, Inc., et al. v. Aereo, Inc., fka Bamboom Labs, Inc, 134 S. Ct. 2498 (Supreme Court of the United States, 2014)
- SOCAN et al. v. Entertainment Software Assn et al., 2022 SCC 30 (Supreme Court of Canada)

sharp and is exceptionally conscientious, smart, courteous and very funny too". Daniel is also ranked by Chambers for his intellectual property practice. In Lexpert's Special Edition: Litigation 2022, the publication recognized Dan's work with Society of Composers, Authors and Music Publishers of Canada, et al. v. Entertainment Software Association, et al., 2022 SCC 30 as one of Lexpert's Top 10 Business Decisions for 2021–2022.

Daniel is an adjunct professor in intellectual property law at the Osgoode Hall Law School at York University and a co-author of the texts Intellectual Property Law in Canada: Cases and Commentary (Carswell), Global Privacy and Security Law Reference (Aspen Publishers), and the User's Guide to Canadian Copyright Tariffs (McCarthy Tétrault). He was called upon to testify as an expert on the operations of the Copyright Board before the Senate Committee on Banking, Trade and Commerce, with his testimony singled out in the Committee's subsequent report.

Daniel is past chair of the Copyright Policy Committee of the Intellectual Property Institute of Canada (IPIC), sat on the Canadian Working Committee for the Association Internationale Pour la Protection de la Propriété Intellectuelle (AIPPI), and is a member of the International Trademark Association (INTA) and the Association Littéraire & Artistique Internationale (ALAI). He has presented on intellectual property issues at numerous conferences, including for Insight, the Ontario Bar Association, the Law Society of Upper Canada, and the 40th annual conference of the Canadian Conference on International Law on intellectual property and the Internet.

Daniel clerked at the Court of Appeal for Ontario. He received his JD (Honours) from the University of Toronto, where he concentrated on intellectual property and won the Gowlings Prize in Law and Information Technology, the Honourable Jerry S. Grafstein, QC Prize in Communications Law, the A. Alan Borovoy Prize in Civil Liberties, the Patricia Julia Myhal Scholarship in Legal Writing, and the Lang Michener Prize in Property.

Prior to entering law school, Daniel was an editor and writer for the National Post and an editor for the Frommer's and Let's Go travel guide series. He was also a contributing author for McCarthy Tétrault's chapter in the first edition of Artificial Intelligence, Law Over Borders Comparative Guide 2022.

Daniel received his MA from the University of Toronto in 1996 and his AB (magna cum laude) from Harvard University in 1994, where he was elected to Phi Beta Kappa and won numerous awards, including the Thomas T.
