Moya is a trial lawyer who understands your business.

A partner in our litigation group in Toronto, Moya's practice focuses on corporate and commercial litigation, professional liability, and infrastructure and construction disputes.

In addition to a variety of commercial disputes, clients turn to Moya for her experience and knowledge on cases involving allegations of breach of fiduciary and other employment duties and misuse of confidential information claims. She also focuses on infrastructure litigation, including bid/tender, fairness and procurement processes. Clients in the infrastructure and construction industries will benefit from her ability to provide real time strategic litigation risk management advice on a variety of procurement law.

Moya has both a trial and appellate practice. She has appeared before all levels of Court, including the Supreme Court of Canada, and has been counsel in private arbitrations involving issues of professional negligence and commercial disputes.

Moya's recent cases include:

- KF Capital Ltd. et al v. Kakoschke, 2020 ONSC 6255 – co-counsel in successful defence of a motion to enforce a corporate indemnity in the context of a claim for breach of fiduciary duty by a former officer and director.
- Carroccia v. Ayow, October 2020 – lead counsel in the successful defence of a physician in a medical negligence jury trial – one of the first civil jury trials conducted in Ontario under COVID-19 protocols
- ABC Residents Association v. Yonge & Scollard Developments Inc., 2020 ONSC 4280 – lead counsel in the successful dismissal of a motion for leave to appeal from the decision of the LPAT to approve a development in Yorkville.
- Kram v. Oestreicher, 2018 ONSC 3813 – lead counsel in the successful defence of a physician in a medical negligence trial – appeal dismissed: 2020 ONSC 2102
- Hymers v. Reaume, December 2019, unreported – lead counsel in the successful defence of a physician in a medical negligence trial
- Ratz v Desa et al, 2015 ONSC 7745 – co-counsel in the successful defence of two physicians in a medical negligence trial
- Bruno Furniture v. Hryniak et al; Mauldin et al v. Hryniak et al, 2014 SCC 8 – Supreme Court of Canada appeal concerning summary judgment
