Grace Waschuk is an associate in our Litigation Group in Calgary. She maintains a general corporate commercial litigation practice and has experience appearing before the Provincial Court of Alberta and the Alberta Court of Queen's Bench.

Grace regularly volunteers with the Civil Claims Duty Counsel Project as well as the Queen's Bench Amicus Project, which provide pro bono legal services to assist unrepresented and disadvantaged litigants with their civil claims. She is also a contributing author of the fifth edition of Defending Class Actions in Canada, published by LexisNexis.

Grace received her Bachelor of Arts (Honours) from Queen's University and her Juris Doctor (with Distinction) from the University of Saskatchewan. During law school, Grace served as a law review editor, community outreach coordinator and participated in mooting and advocacy competitions. Following her studies, Grace clerked for the Honourable Justice James Russell at the Federal Court of Canada in Ottawa, gaining broad administrative law experience.

Grace is a member of the Law Society of Alberta, the Law Society of Upper Canada, the Canadian Bar Association and the Calgary Bar Association.
