Corporate Commercial Litigation

Cassidy Bishop is an associate in our Litigation group in Calgary. She maintains a general corporate commercial litigation practice.

Cassidy's litigation experience includes a broad variety of disputes regarding: class action defence; corporate transactions; partnerships; insurance coverage; professional negligence claims; commercial leases; fraud, conspiracy and breach of fiduciary claims; shareholder disputes; breach of privacy; wills and estates litigation, including breach of trust, interpretation of wills, resulting trusts and conduct of executors; debtor/creditor litigation; breach of contract claims; municipal liability including misfeasance in public office; and construction litigation.

Cassidy is an active member of the Canadian Bar Association and the Calgary Bar Association. Previously, Cassidy was elected by her peers to represent Yale County in the British Columbia Branch of the Canadian Bar Association, and has also served on the executive for the Sexual Orientation and Gender Identity Conference section of the British Columbia Branch of the Canadian Bar Association.

Cassidy graduated from the University of Victoria, Faculty of Law in May 2015. She was called to the British Columbia bar in May 2016 and the Alberta bar in March 2019.
