Corporate Commercial Litigation

Lan Nguyen is an associate in our Litigation Group in Calgary. She maintains a general corporate commercial litigation and dispute resolution practice. Lan assists clients in various industries including oil and gas, energy, and construction.

Lan regularly volunteers with the Civil Claims Duty Counsel Project and the Queen's Bench Amicus Project, which provides pro bono legal advice for unrepresented litigants in the Alberta civil courts. Prior to becoming an associate, Lan articulated and summered with the Firm.

Lan received her Bachelor of Commerce degree (with Distinction) from the University of Calgary and her Juris Doctor from the University of Victoria. During law school, Lan and her teammate placed first at the Canadian Client Consultation Competition, and advanced on to represent the University of Victoria at the Brown Mosten International Client Consultation Competition, placing as semi-finalists. Lan also served on the editorial board for the student-managed law journal, and was involved with various student and community organizations. In her final semester of law school, Lan completed a clinical term at the University of Victoria's downtown pro bono legal clinic, The Law Centre.

Lan is a member of the Law Society of Alberta, the Canadian Bar Association, and the Calgary Bar Association.
