Jordan Bierkos is an associate in our Litigation Group in Calgary. He is an advocate and strategic advisor who helps clients solve pressing and challenging problems. Jordan maintains a general corporate commercial litigation practice where he assists clients with dispute prevention, containment, and resolution, including through litigation or arbitration.

Clients regularly seek out Jordan's advice and advocacy to help them navigate complex disputes often involving complex legal issues, significant reputational or strategic concerns, multiple parties, and/or significant damages claims.

Jordan has appeared as counsel before Courts in Alberta and Saskatchewan, and the Alberta Securities Commission. Jordan is frequently involved in arbitrations, both ad hoc and institutional, and domestic and international. Having been lead or co-counsel in several trials and arbitration hearings, he understands how to advocate clearly and persuasively from initial demand through closing argument.

Jordan's experience spans areas including contractual and quasi-contractual disputes, commercial leasing, corporate governance and director and officer liability, shareholder disputes, and employment-related claims. He assists clients in industries ranging from energy and construction, to sport and entertainment.

Clients appreciate Jordan's ability to distill complex matters into actionable insights. He has written various thought leadership articles and is a contributing author to several texts including Prompt Payment, Adjudication and Construction Liens in Alberta, 2021-2022, published by Carswell Thomson Reuters, Virtual Advocacy: Litigating from a Distance, published by LexisNexis, and Practical Law Canada's Attachment (Freezing or Mareva) Orders: Overview (Canada), published by Thomson Reuters.
