Raye recently completed her first year of law school at the University of Calgary. During her first year, she worked on the Trellis Youth Information project for Pro Bono Students Canada and served as an executive in the Technology Law Association.

Prior to entering law school, Raye completed an MBA specialized in Business Analytics through the University of Fredericton and a BSc Pharmacology at the University of Alberta. After completing her undergraduate degree, she worked with the executive team of a health technology start-up company. Following this, Raye worked at a boutique technology and patent law firm in Edmonton.

In her spare time, Raye volunteers with the YMCA Tutor Table program and tries to get to the mountains as often as possible.
