Patrick is a partner in our Business Law Group in Vancouver, with a practice focused on domestic and international transactions in the mining sector. He is sought out by clients for his expertise in alternative financing transactions, including metal streams, royalty financings and mining joint ventures. Patrick regularly advises both mining companies and financiers, working with clients to design and execute complex and novel financing solutions.

Patrick also has extensive experience advising clients on both domestic and cross-boarder mergers and acquisitions, helping clients to realize their business and growth objectives.

In addition to his transactional work, Patrick's practice encompasses a broad range of corporate and commercial law matters. He advises public companies on securities law matters, including continuous disclosure obligations and corporate governance. In his commercial practice, Patrick has developed and negotiated a variety of significant service and supply agreements, including warehousing agreements for a national transportation and logistics company and procurement contracts for major mining companies.

Clients trust Patrick to navigate complex transaction structures and rely on his strong negotiating skills and pragmatic approach to problem solving.

Some of Patrick's recent representative transactional work includes:

- Counsel to Wheaton Precious Metals on its US$700m gold stream and loan agreement with Montage Gold in respect of the Koné project in Côte d'Ivoire
- Counsel to Sibanye on its US$500m streaming agreement with Franco-Nevada in respect of its Marikana, Kroondal and Rustenburg operations in South Africa
- Counsel to Wheaton Precious Metals on its US$175m gold stream with Allied Gold in respect of the Kurmuk project in Ethiopia
