Ashley is an associate our Business Law Group in Calgary. She maintains a general corporate practice which includes corporate finance and securities, corporate governance and mergers and acquisitions. Her practice also includes energy (including electricity and oil and gas), regulatory and environmental law.

Ashley has experience advising clients on a variety of corporate transactions, including private placements, asset and share transactions, corporate reorganizations and securities transactions. She also has experience advising on regulatory compliance as well as assisting with appearances in front of the Alberta Environmental Appeals Board.

Ashley completed her J.D. at the Schulich School of Law at Dalhousie University. During law school, Ashley was involved with the Environmental Law Student Society, the Refugee Advocacy Association of Dalhousie, the Law Social Committee, the Elizabeth Fry Society and was a student board member for the East Coast Environmental Law Association. Upon graduation, Ashley received the Judge Fran Potts Award in Law for her academics and contributions to the law school and was elected as "Vice President for Life" by the graduating class.

Prior to law school, Ashley graduated with a Bachelor of Arts in International Studies and French (with honours) from St. Norbert College in De Pere, Wisconsin where she was a member of the Varsity Women's Ice Hockey team.

Ashley continues to volunteer with the firm's Pro Bono projects and initiatives and is involved with the firm's fundraising efforts for the United Way. She was called to the bar in Alberta in 2020 and is a member of the Law Society of Alberta, the Canadian Bar Association and the Calgary Bar Association.
