Casey provides innovative and creative solutions to complicated legal issues, delivered with passionate advocacy in defence of our clients' interests. He takes pride in combining analytical excellence with a pragmatic and business-focused approach to solving problems.

Casey is one of Canada's leading competition lawyers, with a practice covering all aspects of merger control, cartel defence, unilateral conduct, and competition litigation. He is known in the market for combining pragmatic advice with a unique analytical approach to competition law issues, derived from practicing competition/antitrust law with leading firms in Toronto, Washington and London.

Casey is recognized as among the world's leading cartel defence lawyers, has served as Vice-Chair of the ABA/IBA International Cartel Workshop (San Francisco, 2020), and as Co-Chair of Global Competition Review's GCR Live 5th Annual Cartels conference. He has defended clients in more than 15 different Competition Bureau criminal investigations, including precedent-setting cases such as R. v. Rowe et al. (2004) and R. v. Maxzone Auto Parts (Canada) Corp. (2012). He regularly defends competition class actions before the Canadian courts, leading national teams to coordinate a united strategy across multiple claims, achieving successful outcomes for clients by striking out claims, defeating certification, and negotiating discontinuances; current and past matters include Eyewear, Educational Materials, Fragrances, Realtors, Junior Hockey, Aftermarket Auto Lights, Car Carriers, Capacitors, Bearings, Anti-Vibration Rubber Parts, CVJ Boots, Plastic Interior Trim, HID Ballasts, Optical Disk Drives, and Automotive Lights. He has also litigated civil reviewable practices before the Competition Tribunal.

In his merger control practice, Casey has advised on the Competition Act treatment of more than 200 transactions, including numerous industry-transforming transactions which hinged on successful antitrust clearance.
